Volume 1: Social Skills & Pragmatics for Autism and Related Needs

Formatted to the learning strengths of students with autism and designed in conjunction with special educators, speech therapists, and autism specialists, the Tuned in to Learning program is a hit in classrooms, homes, applied behavior analysis programs, and speech therapy clinics!

These interactive songs capture children's attention and provide a motivating environment to practice conversation skills, turn taking, emotions, body language, greetings, self-regulation, eye contact, and appropriate behavior.

This is a unique, effective program for kids with autism that is fun!!! It is a 'must have' for families and professionals dealing with children on the spectrum. My students blossomed as I watched them engaged in ways that addressed their communication needs in all settings and had them interacting with their peers.

— Shirley Stowers, MS, CCC-SLP & President of Autism Resources

SPECIAL EDUCATION/CHILDREN/AUTISM

The first interactive music and multimedia program of its kind geared specifically to the learning styles of children with autism and related needs!

This comprehensive kit gives you the tools to boost student motivation and increase retention of core social and communication scripts. Ideal for individual and classroom group use, speech therapy sessions, inclusion settings, ABA programs, and to promote sibling interaction at home.

Age-appropriate and catchy songs for ages 3 – 12 include: Getting to Know Someone • The Expression on My Face • Look at Your Neighbor • Body Check • Compliments • Super Student • Body Talk • Rules of Conversation • Pass It Along • Follow the Leader. Plus, seven Adapt-a-Song versions allow you to insert new questions or instructions once students have mastered the initial song versions.

Students love watching the video versions of the Tuned in to Learning songs! Each video is presented in a slideshow format which allows children additional time to focus in on the facial expressions, body language, and behavioral examples included in each photograph. To test for comprehension, a quiz is given at the end of each video, requiring the students to respond to questions about each target skill area. Parents, therapists, and educators enjoy the versatility of being able to access the videos on DVD or right on their computer, using the CD-ROM.

Computer requirements:
CD-ROM drives, Adobe Acrobat Reader and QuickTime player, which can be downloaded directly from the CD-ROM.

What makes this program unique?

- Integrates the use of scripts, music mnemonics, photographic prompts, textual cues, role play, and video teaching to enhance learning.
- Accommodates processing delays through the use of simplified lyrics and slower paced instructions, additional response time, repetition, and increased vocal volumes.
- Provides sample educational objectives for each skill area in an IEP-friendly format.
- Utilizes an instructional hierarchy that is systematically geared towards generalization of skills and functional outcomes.
- Includes visual supports that embrace ethnic diversity and promote multicultural awareness.
- May be adapted to all levels of functioning, including students who are non-verbal.
- Offers you a step-by-step demonstration of how the program is used through an informative How-To video.

My students were immediately hooked on the Tuned in to Learning songs after we started using them during our group time. The easy to use lesson plans blend right in to our curriculum and help learners at all levels connect. Music is one medium that truly highlights my students' strengths!

— Ashley Early, MA, autism specialist & special education teacher

Congratulations!

As the third undergraduate college established at UC San Diego, Thurgood Marshall College holds a unique place in the university's history. The college was founded 40 years ago and was meant to focus on historical and classical studies. But events of the time reshaped the college's philosophy to focus on diversity and opportunities for underrepresented students. That spirit of community carries on today, both at TMC and at UC San Diego. TMC has also spent the last four decades emphasizing the importance of the scholar and the citizen, teaching students that social responsibility and academic excellence go hand-in-hand.
